Or so many years ago, in Southern's walls.

The Seniors started their carver.

Awed by the grandeur of her folty halls.

Lawing her more with every passing year.

Life's trials came to Southern and were shared

By carnest students working for her best;

Toiling that the harbships might be spared

To future generations on their quest.

Life's joys were shared—eternal triendships made

To ease the Jonney in the World before.

And tender memories that will not fade

When dear familiar faces are no more.

A few have fallen by the warside—gone

In form and feature—they have not returned.

But in our hearts their work is carrying on

And from their words and actions we have learned.

To those who guided us with careful hands

We one more than we ever can repay—

We'll take their message into foreign hands:

Their words will five again in Future day!

We have no tears!—Tomorrow is our right.

And with a smile we will go matching on

To live our lives for others, and to fight

The fight of life until the Viet'ry's won.

Senior Class History

SUPREMELY happy group of verdant explorers once entered upon a great but hazardous adventure in the hope that somewhere they might discover that wonderful fountain of knowledge that should quench an insatiable thirst. With an ardor undimmed by any fear of failure, and with dreams of many worths deeds and noble accomplishments, these youths set out upon a long four-year journey. In keeping with the spirit of these ideals the courageous adventurers chose a path but barely trodden, and one which held in its possession a pearl of great price—the cornerstone of a mighty future institution.

Thus it happened that the Class of '26 marked its beginnings with the foundation of a greater Southern. Rich and varied were the experiences of that first year as the searchers earnestly began their noble quest. Each day brought a progress that filled the eyes of onlookers with wonder and admiration. Finally, two massive structures. surrounded by a wealth of orange trees, gracing the shores of beautiful Lake Hollingsworth, stood in mighty grandeur 'neath a glorious Florida sky,

This was indeed a memorable occasion for the Freshmen of '22, and following in rapid succession were many other events which shall long be kept in memory by this class. There was the brilliant opening reception, when thousands of visitors were first welcomed to the halfs of a new Southern; the annual celebrations such as Halloween parties, Thanksgiving dinners, and George Washington banquets. Could we forget the beautiful May Day Festival, when the appearance of Arthur and Guinevere led uback to the days of knighthood and chivalry? Are we not proud of the fact that during this year the Department of Journalism was instituted in the College curriculum and was composed largely of our own Freshmen members? In fact, every phase of college life found Freshmen trying to fit themselves to the new environment and become a vital force in the great adventure.

A CRANCALD A CONTRACTION OF A CONTRACTIO

In the second stage of the journey we have become a sophisticated group of Sophomores, jolly, happy, carefree—quite conscious of the fact that we can no longer be dubbed as "ignorant little Freshies." Being modest about our achievements, however. we will not boast of a long line of illustrious events. Let it suffice to say that besides many scholarly attainments Sophomores won recognition in every phase of athletics. Unwilling to be outdone in loyalty to upperclassmen, we entertained the dignified Seniors with a lovely picnic on the entrancing shores of Scott Lake. This was our last big event as Sophs—for summer days were fast approaching—three months more and we should find ourselves in a place of high esteem.

The fall of 1924 greeted a more serious-minded, deep-thinking group of explorers. We were then Juniors, real upperclassmen, with a feeling of pride that we should have a share in bigger responsibilities. Among our Juniors we discovered great genii, some of whom carried off prizes in the annual literary society contests; others found themselves of great value in all campus activities.

Senior Class History—Continued

There are so many interesting things to remember as Juniors, but probably the most exciting of all was the day we donned the Senior caps and gowns and marched into chapel with a dignity that no Senior could ever parallel. Then, of course, came the climax of the whole year, the long-awaited Junior-Senior Banquet, which was put over in royal style at the Cleveland Heights Club House. Our Junior missions had now been completed, and joyously we awaited the passing of the last final exam, confident that soon we should bear a long-coveted title.

'Tis a busy, busy life now with so many important affairs taking place. A most noteworthy occasion in our Senior year was the day we assumed the formal dress of dignity, and as our rights demanded, taking our places next to the Faculty, we marched with stately tread in the great procession that led us to the scene of our new college President's inauguration. A grand and glorious day it was, a memory ne'er to be forgotten in the annals of our class history.

Springtime again rolls 'round and with it great anticipation for the Seniors. Various kinds of entertainments and banquets are to be given in our honor; we are looking forward to the arrival of rings and invitations, the publishing of the INTER-LACHEN, the night of the Senior play and last but not least Commencement itself. What a thrill the mere thought of graduation brings! And yet the feeling of joy comes not alone, but 'tis intermingled with a touch of sorrow, for we realize that we have set out upon the last mile of the journey.

E натЕ to say we're perfect We're so modest, don't you know. But we really, truly think that we're "the stuff We may not be good-looking,

And we may not have much sense,

But, anyway, we're Juniors—that's enoug

We really feel quite sorry For these other classes here.

We think they're rather young and play to

Because they just aren't dignified And serious like us

And—well, they just aren't Juniors—that's

But, seriously now.

We've been here three long years:

We're for Southern when the sailing's smooth or rough.

When you're wondering who loves her.

And who's Southern born and bred.

Just look us Juniors over—that's enough.

THE FRESHMAN

HE sun arises from his rosy couch.
And upward starts upon his noble way
To light the world in every darkened nook
With spangles of pure gold
Shed on the rich and poor alike.
Until anon a moment hangs suspended.
Then darts beneath the thin horizon line
And leaves the world unto
The paler glory of reflected light.

And upward rising from all parts of earth:
Within this reign of darkened light.
The youth of every clime starts
On his pilgrimage for light.
His goal the flaming sun of truth
To light the world, and honor
Rich and poor alike in every part.
—A sun to have new rising on the morrow,
A dawn with rosy promise to the world.

U, of Florida 9

This was a most interesting game, because Florida was playing a double-header. Coach Haygood did not know just what his boys would do under fire, but they did not disappoint him.

It was a good, clean game, and much credit is given the players of Florida for their unfaltering sportsmanship. We play Florida Sept. 25 and we are expecting to make it the best game in the state next season.

ROLLINS 3

MORRO MORRO.

The entire student body journeyed to Winter Park to see the "Moceasins" defeat our old rival for the second consecutive season. The game was hotly contested, looking at times as though Southern was going to be the worse for it. Rollins was much heavier, but during the last half Southern opened up and decided the score.

BIRMINGHAM SOUTHERN 9

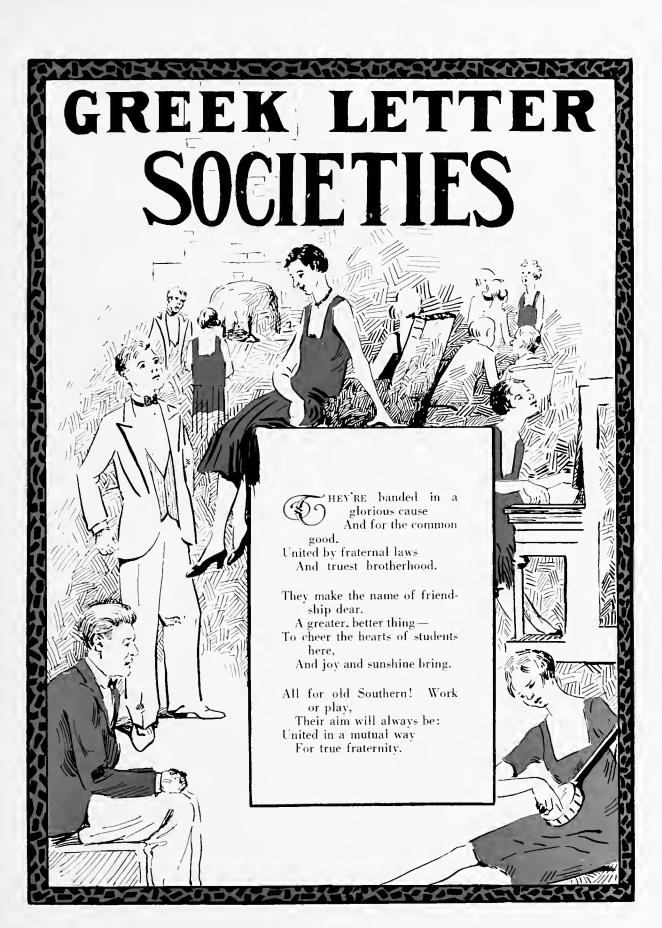

The people of Lakeland say that this was the greatest game ever played at Adair Park. It was a thriller from the kick-off to the last whistle. I p and down the field the two Southerns struggled. Birmingham made three points in the first half by a place kick. Southern came back in the last half with a pass which netted a touchdown after a fifty-yard run. Birmingham returned with a touchdown which won the day.

ONE MILLION AND ONE-HALF DOLLARS

COUTHERN COLLEGE is now in the midst of raising one million and one-half dollars. The work is being carried on through a state-wide campaign and it is really wonderful to see the cooperation of the Methodists over the state of Florida and the interest they manifest in this institution of Methodism-the only one supported by the Methodist Church in the land of sunshine and flowers.

Lakeland, the home-town of the institution, loosed her purse-strings and gave liberally to the endowment fund. Asked for $200,000, this municipality, just to show President Spivey how the folk of Lakeland were interested in Southern, loosed their purse-strings and gave $360,000. Just think of it! $160,000 more than they were

Once the million and one-half dollars is in hand Southern will become eligible for membership in the Southern Association of Colleges. She will also start an elaborate building program. In fact, the first guns have already been fired in her building program. One small dormitory has been started, and President Spivey has announced that he hopes to have three or four of these small dormitories ready for male students by the time the fall term of college begins. Each of these will accommodate from thirty to forty students, and a matron will be placed in charge of each with the idea in view of giving the boys something of the home life.

Bartow gave $30,000 to Southern; Fort Myers, $25,000; Bradenton, $50,000, and Sarasota, $15,000. The campaign in Tampa is expected to raise $200,000, while St. Petersburg will give at least $100,000. Campaigns are also being operated in Miami and in Jacksonville, where a rich harvest in funds is also promised.

SEEN THE SETTING. A JEWEL, SO RARE AND BEAUTIFUL. IS THE SOUTHERN COLLEGE OF THE FUTURE:
THE BALMY SUNSHINE OF FLORIDA: THE SKIES SO BLUE AND
CLEAR; THE WATERS RIPPLING RHYTHMICALLY AS THE REDBIRD FLITS THROUGH THE LEAPY GREEN OF THE TREES LADEN
WITH BALLS OF GOLDEN FRUIT. TO CROWN THIS PICTURE
